Out of an abundance of caution and due to the recent orders by some local counties and mayors, beginning tomorrow, we will require parents or guardians who are dropping off or picking up their children at a Stepping Stone School campus to wear masks.

While some of the local restrictions are being relaxed, Stepping Stone School will continue to do all we have been doing to ensure the safety, security and health of the children in our care. This means that Stepping Stone School will not be lifting the requirement preventing parents from entering the building.

All entering the buildings are still required to have their temperatures taken and an overall wellness check will be performed. Children will be monitored for wellness throughout the day. All teachers and administrators are required to wear masks.

All of the high-level sanitization practices that have been in effect for the last three months will continue. We will also continue to serve children their food individually, not family style.

Children will continue to use the playgrounds on a class by class basis throughout the day. This will limit the number of other children and teachers your child comes in contact with.

While many of our competitors are relaxing their standards, we want to ensure you that all that can be done, is being done to provide you with peace of mind. You can be sure your children are well cared for, loved and their health and safety are being guarded at the highest level possible!

Sincerely,

Rhonda Paver, M.A.
Owner and Executive Director
